

Catherine McCullough, Advisory Board - Promising Practices Website Coordinator

Catherine McCullough is of Métis ancestry and was born in Orillia, Ontario. She graduated with a Master of Education from Brock University in St. Catharines and has been involved in education for more than 25 years.

Since 2007, she has been the Director of Education for the Sudbury Catholic District School Board. Previous to that she had many years of senior administrative experience as the Superintendent of Program and Special Education in the Simcoe Muskoka Catholic District School Board.

Ms. McCullough is the Co-chair of the Directors' Council on Aboriginal Education (DCAE) - a joint committee composed of Ontario Directors of Education and the Ministry of Education. The focus of DCAE is to build awareness and support for Aboriginal education, and to provide the opportunity for district school boards to share innovative strategies and initiatives related to improving learning for Aboriginal students.
