

Susan Aris, Education Program Coordinator

Susan received her undergraduate degree from the University of Western Ontario and her graduate degree from Lakehead University while working with Lakehead District School Board as a teacher and school administrator.

She joined the Ontario Ministry of Education in 2007 as an Education Officer in the Thunder Bay Regional office, where she held portfolios in secondary curriculum, student achievement and leadership development. She worked with First Nation schools, provincially funded school boards, and International schools in China and Hong Kong to support student achievement in both elementary and secondary schools.

As of March 2015, Susan was appointed Education Program Co-ordinator for the Martin Aboriginal Education Initiative. In this role she will support Aboriginal student achievement through MAEI's various strategies and activities.